Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

Mass Media

- Mass Media Organisation which reaches out to thousands of people residing in different parts of the country, nowadays one of the major factors of our life.
- It has become a very integral part of our lives e.g. Newspapers, TV, radio etc especially after globalisation.
- Keeps in touch with reality and what is happening around the world.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

Mass Media

- Mass media also includes telecommunications inter-connectivity through cell phones and advertisements.
- Fardoonji Murzban was the pioneer of the Gujarati Press in Bombay (now Mumbai). It was as early as 1822 that he started the Bombay Samachar as a daily.
- Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar started the Shome Prakash in Bengali in 1858.

Mass Media and Sociology

- Mass media has not only expanded tremendously. But it has a good impact on the majority in some way or the other.

Mass media is of interest to us because:

1. When we study mass media we come to know that mass media adapts itself to the political, cultural, social and economic aspects of life.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

Mass Media and Sociology

2. The relationship between society and mass media is interconnected. This is a dialectical relationship (mutually dependent relationship)

- As a society cannot serve without mass media because life would be boring and dull.
- Similarly mass media can only serve if it embraces the cultural aspect of society.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

Mass Media and Sociology

- Mass media is a huge organisation (print, AV, audio). Each branch is a huge organisation involving a lot of capital, management and employees working in different branches.
- Mass media targets different sections of the society, eg. some ads target the youth, some the housewives and some the business class.

Rural and urban area ads are different in urban areas, children, youth and housewives ads are different.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(1) Beginning of Mass Media

- Mass media started off with the development of the printing press in the mid 15th Century (1440) by Johann Guterberg.
- Only with the coming of the industrial revolution in the 18th century, the demand for printing press increased.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(1) Beginning of Mass Media

- It was only in the 19th century that the literacy rate went up, population increased and new developments came up, that newspapers started reaching a much bigger population.
- Initially the newspaper had only religious discussions other than actual news and one of the reasons for the popularity of the newspaper is that people in different parts of the world can hear the same news at the same time.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(2) During Colonial Rule

- Newspapers in different languages came up (vernacular, newspaper) of Matrabhumi, Amrita Bazaar, Kesari.
- Through these newspapers they tried to promote the freedom struggle, national movement to instigate people to fight the British but the British disliked this censoring.
- Hence even though newspapers were not under the British government they monitored them through censorship.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(2) During Colonial Rule

- There were not many literate people. Hence many did not read the papers.
- Because of monocular languages, their influence was widespread among the people.
- The underlying news was to fight for the freedom of the people.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(3) All Independent India

- Nehru called media the 'watchdog of democracy' Why?
- It observes as well as we expect of democracy in society.
- He wanted the media to inform the public of the developmental projects being taken by the government.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication

(3) All Independent India

- Focussed on the development of the country e.g. Metro dams.
- He wanted the media to inform the public/promote jobs so that everyone can be self sufficient.
- He wanted people to be aware of all the social evils that are present.

Chapter 12 Mass Media and Communication
